Role of a co-founder varies based on kind of contribution he is making towards the business.

For example if you had a co-founder who could only do the finance and knows nothing about business then you have the responsibility of making sure that money is utilized properly and the business succeeds.

Otherwise if you had co-founder who could contribute only knowledge then you have issue with managing finance and if for any reason both of you develop misunderstanding the whole business starts falling apart.

So just finger crossed ;)
